- ∞ When you sign up to be a member of NZCF, we require information about you such as telephone number, address, email address, name etc.
- ∞ We keep records relating to how long you've been a member and what type of membership you have (eg individual, family, lifetime etc).
- ∞ At the time when subscription payments are due, we keep a note of who has paid their subscriptions and who still owes money.

What do we use the information for?

- ∞ We need your contact information so that we can give you the information that you're entitled to and/or have requested.

Who can see your information?

- ∞ You can! If you ever need to check the information that we hold about you, just contact the NZCF Privacy Officer.
- ∞ Appointed registrars, officials and officers may be able to see information about you.
- ∞ Otherwise, it's your information and you're in control. If you say you're happy to share it, that's fine. We ask you what information you are willing to share when you sign up for membership.
- ∞ We don't share your information with outside people or organisations unless you specifically say you're happy with this.

Keeping your information accurate

- ∞ We do our best to keep our records up to date. But we only have the information you give us – so if you move house, or change your name, or get a new email address please let us know.

How long do we keep your information for?

- ∞ We only keep your contact information for as long as you are a member.
- ∞ We do like to know who our former members are, though, for NZCF archive purposes so we may keep a list of past members' names.

Request for information

- ∞ If someone asks for the information held by NZCF about them, then this is a Privacy Act request and NZCF has 20 working days to respond to it. A decision should be made on that request in that timeframe. If you receive a request but are unsure about what to do, you should contact the NZCF Privacy Officer as soon as possible to discuss it.
